Nevertheless, I firmly believe in striking a balance between productivity and responsibility, a principle that underpins my achievements in all endeavors. I take pride in being highly responsible, fast learner and adept at working collaboratively, even under pressure.

INTERESTS

My interests include reading, writing, and engaging in hands-on activities. Ceramics and illustration inspire and accompany me in my daily life, just like photography and long walks on the beach where I reside. Creating content excites me as much as working with tangible items; the art of storytelling and capturing both visual and written moments never ceases to amaze me.
